

Integration + Real-Life Application

10-Week Leadership Development Program

Daily Habit	Weekly Deliverable	Reading
Rotate one skill each day: Monday = active listening, Tuesday = empathy, Wednesday = Radical Candor feedback, Thursday = vulnerability (clean apology), Friday = proactivity (5-second pause).	Launch your change initiative. Reflect in writing: What worked? What didn't? What will I continue?	Review your notes from all books. Select your top 3 tools. Schedule a monthly review.

Core Concept

The tenth week is not the end — it is the beginning of a practice. Leadership development is not a program you complete; it is a discipline you commit to. The leaders who change the most over their careers are not necessarily the most talented — they are the most reflective and the most committed to growth.

Integration means taking the tools you've learned and weaving them into how you show up every day — not performing them, but embodying them. This requires ongoing reflection, honest feedback, and the willingness to keep being a beginner in the areas where you struggle most.

The final week is also a threshold: you now have a complete picture of your leadership — self-assessed, peer-assessed, and stress-tested through scenarios and real conversations. You know where you are strong and where you are blind. The question is what you do with that knowledge.

""We do not rise to the level of our goals. We fall to the level of our systems.""

— James Clear, Atomic Habits

Framework: The Leadership Flywheel

Awareness → Practice → Feedback → Reflection → Awareness (repeat)

Each cycle deepens your skill. The flywheel effect: the first few rotations are hard and slow. After enough cycles, momentum builds and the skills become automatic.

Your monthly review ritual:

1. What leadership moments happened this month that I want to learn from?
2. Which skill did I practice most? Where did I still struggle?
3. What is one relationship I want to invest in next month?
4. What is one hard conversation I've been avoiding?

Daily Practice

- Monday: Active listening day. In every conversation, paraphrase before you respond. Do not give advice until asked.
- Tuesday: Empathy day. Before each meeting, write what the other person might be feeling. Reflect one emotion back during the day.
- Wednesday: Radical Candor day. Give one piece of specific, caring, challenging feedback. Ask afterward if it was clear.
- Thursday: Vulnerability day. Apologize without 'but' for anything that needs repair. Say 'I don't know' at least once.
- Friday: Proactivity day. Pause 5 seconds before every reaction. End the day by writing what you controlled vs. what you're carrying from your concern circle.

Leadership Scenarios

Scenario 1

You are leading your first team-wide change initiative. In the first meeting, three people ask sharp critical questions and two are visibly disengaged.

Reflection: Drawing on all 10 weeks — what do you do in the room? After the meeting?

Scenario 2

A high-performing team member resigns unexpectedly. In the exit conversation she says: 'I never felt like you really saw what I was capable of.'

Reflection: What might you have missed? Which of the 10 competencies was most at play?

Weekly Reflection Prompts

Set aside 20 minutes at the end of this week to write your responses. These are for you — be honest.

Reflection 1: Looking back over 10 weeks: which single skill or habit has had the most impact on your leadership?

Reflection:

Reflection 2: What is the hardest leadership behavior for you to sustain under pressure? What is your plan to get better at it?

Reflection:

Reflection 3: Write your leadership commitment: the 3 things you will continue, the 1 thing you will stop, and the 1 relationship you will invest in most over the next quarter.

Reflection:

Weekly Habit Tracker

Day	Done?	Notes / Observations
Monday	■
Tuesday	■
Wednesday	■
Thursday	■
Friday	■
Saturday	■
Sunday	■

End-of-Week Summary

Reflection: What was my biggest leadership learning this week?

Reflection: What will I carry forward into next week?

Reflection: One relationship I invested in this week: